

CHOOSING A JURY IN COOPER CASE THIS AFTERNOON

Forty-eight Veniremen Are Examined and are Discharged.

Governor Patterson May Be a Witness.

REGARDING ALLEGED THREAT

Nashville, Tenn., Feb. 8.—The selection of a jury in the Cooper trial proceeded today. The new venire of 500 was ready. Forty-eight were examined and all excused.

The attorneys for Col. Duncan Cooper, Robin Cooper and John D. Sharpe have kept secret along what lines the defense will be built.

The state, it was said, will attempt to prove that Colonel Cooper, for twenty-four hours before the shooting of former Senator Carmack, threatened the latter's life. It will be charged that he showed the revolver with which he armed himself to his daughter, Mrs. Burch, and finally, it will be charged, that he stated on leaving for Carmack's office that he intended to wipe out what he considered insults with blood.

While it has been generally expected that this evidence would be contradicted from many sources even by Governor Patterson himself, it was reported that the state intended to subpoena the governor and interrogate him relative to alleged threats against Carmack which Cooper made in a conversation with him.

Fire and Police Board.
The board of fire and police commissioners will meet tonight in regular session at the city hall. Only routine business is scheduled to come before the commissioners, and probably nothing will be done about electing foremen for another year.

No Meeting Friday.
Owing to the fact that Friday will be the centenary of Lincoln's birth, and the railroad officials will be busy handling the special trains to the Lincoln farm, no meeting of the board of the Illinois Central hospital will be held. The meeting has been postponed indefinitely.

No Lynching Yet.
Jackson, Miss., Feb. 8.—Governor Noel is informed that the threatened lynching at Houston, Miss., has not occurred. He recommended a special session of the court to quiet the people. He told the sheriff he would rush troops if the threatening attitude of the people becomes more pronounced.

His recapture greatly surprised him. After being placed in jail here this afternoon he confessed, abandoned hope of regaining freedom, went word to his family to sell his farm and other property and leave; told the details of the crime for which he was convicted, how he escaped from the state's prison and roamed around the country before settling down on the farm.

Hiram Smedley Resigns Office of County Court Clerk and Eli Boone Takes Charge of it This Morning

Income of Office Above Expense Will Be Devoted to Wiping Out Any Possible Deficit.

Hiram Smedley, county court clerk of McCracken county, indicted for alleged failure to account for public funds, and sued by the state revenue agent for the sums, has resigned his office, and Mr. Eli G. Boone, agent for the Title Guaranty and Surety company, has taken charge. Mr. Boone gave bond of $20,000 this morning. He will operate the office as economically as possible, and turn the proceeds over to the county and state to make up the deficit. If the books show one when they are officially balanced, Mr. Smedley declares he does not owe a cent.

Mr. Boone this morning appointed Miss Lizzie Edgington a deputy and has made no other appointments so far. Miss Miller is still employed in the office. The bond of Mr. Smedley was a covenant bond, and County Judge Lightfoot believes that with economy the office can be made to pay up the balance alleged to be owed by Mr. Smedley during the year which remains of his term.

Mr. Boone's first official act was the issuing of a marriage license.

GEORGE GOULD TO QUIT RAILROAD GAME, IS REPORT

Mismanagement of Wabash and His Quarrel With President Ramsey.

Sister Angry at His Interference.

HARRIMAN SECURES PROMISE

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 8.—From Pittsburgh railroad and financial circles the news has crept forth that George J. Gould has decided to quit the railroad business entirely, just as soon as he can get out, and that this was part of the promise he made to E. H. Harriman when he imported Harriman to come to his assistance in the Pittsburgh district. Harriman is known now to be moving toward lifting the receiverships from the West Side Belt, the Wheeling and Lake Erie and the Wabash-Pittsburgh Terminal railroads here, which have been plunged into financial straits by alleged mismanagement on the part of the Goulds.

That the Wabash entrance into Pittsburgh cost in the neighborhood of $20,000,000 is known, and that it has for some years been practically a dead line is also known.

When President Joseph Ramsey, of the Wabash, had the line into Pittsburgh about completed he wished to let all the large contracts possible to firms which could do his line some good in relation to freight when it was completed. He arranged to let some great contracts to Jones & Laughlin here for steel and equipment and was also placing other orders with Pittsburgh firms.

It appears, however, that Mr. Gould objected to this and let the contracts to outside firms, from which the Wabash could not hope to derive benefits in the way of freight.

Then ensued the memorable fight between Ramsey and Gould for control of the Wabash. It is known here that among those back of Ramsey were John D. Rockefeller and William Whitney. Gould outvoted Ramsey for the presidency by a small margin at the Toledo meeting of the Wabash, later placing his own man in control.

Miss Helen Gould is said to have been most bitterly outspoken against her brother's taking charge of matters herself. When the crash came at Pittsburgh and it was necessary for some one with millions to come to the relief of the Gould terminals, Harriman was the first on hand, and, according to the Pittsburgh Information, only agreed to take a hand on the promise of George Gould to "get out of the game" altogether.

DIRECTOR GOWN DOOMED.

Basket Dress of the Louis Quinze Period Will Be the Mode.

Paris, Feb. 8.—The director gown is doomed, so say the leaders of fashion, and by next fall a new fashion, which will revive the Louis Quinze basket dress, will be the mode. The scabbard gown, which is a modification of the director gown, is now in vogue. This is practically as form-fitting as its predecessor, but includes an overskirt which hangs to the knee. The dressmakers hope to work into the new fashion from this. However, it will be difficult, as the director gown is very much the favorite with women, especially slender women. The Louis Quinze basket gown has great flounces of puffs on the hips, and the bodice reaches far down to a point. A modification of this style was in vogue in 1880, but has not been fashionable since.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Is the best of all medicines for the cure of diseases, disorders and weaknesses peculiar to women. It is the only preparation of its kind devised by a regularly graduated physician—an experienced and skilled specialist in the diseases of women.

It is a safe medicine in any condition of the system. THE ONE REMEDY which contains no alcohol and no injurious habit-forming drugs and which creates no craving for such stimulants.

THE ONE REMEDY so good that its makers are not afraid to print its every ingredient on each outside bottle wrapper and attest to the truthfulness of the same under oath.

It is sold by medicine dealers everywhere, and any dealer who hasn't it can get it. Don't take a substitute of unknown composition for this medicine of known composition. No counterfeit is as good as the genuine and the druggist who says something else is "just as good as Dr. Pierce's" is either mistaken or is trying to deceive you for his own selfish benefit. Such a man is not to be trusted. He is trifling with your most priceless possession—your health—may be your life itself. See that you get what you ask for.

Welcoming the Traveler.

I have always had a good opinion of the enterprise of the life insurance agent. It has seemed to me that the busy bee is a lazy ne'er-do-well compared with him. Recently this opinion has been strengthened.

An old colored servant living in a neighboring family made his first trip away from home and visited relatives in New York.

On his return to Louisiana he was asked what he did while in the north. "Well, 'mong uddah 'tings, I done tuk a life insurance policy fo' a hun-ed dollars."

"Why, what on earth do you want with a life insurance policy? You have no wife or children."

"Dat's what I done tol' him, but I had 't take it, all de same. De agent man, he met me at de boat landin' an' he said I'd haf 't have one or he'd sen' me back home. He worn't swine fo' 't 'low me 't land if I didn't buy one. Dey don't 'low 'no one in New Yawk 'less dey has a 'subance policy.'—Woman's Home Companion.

CELEBRATION
BEGINS TODAY

Chicago Inaugurates Lincoln Week.

Every Town in State Will Have Some Sort of Celebration—Springfield One Point of Interest.

NEW ENGLAND ALSO IN LINE.

Chicago, Feb. 8.—By authority of the city council and the unanimous consent of the entire population, today inaugurates Lincoln week in Chicago to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the martyred president.

While every city and village in the state, and especially Springfield will bedeck itself in flags and Lincoln's portraits, interest is particularly attached here because of the elaborateness of the program, which, beginning with Lincoln sermons today, will continue until midnight Saturday.

In New England.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 8.—New England will pay a notable tribute this week to Abraham Lincoln in recognition of the centenary of his birth. The author of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," the venerable Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, will read a poem written for the occasion at the exercises in Symphony hall here Friday evening and addresses will be made by former Secretary of the Navy Long, and others. At noon Friday Senator Henry Cabot Lodge will deliver the Lincoln oration before the joint assembly of the house and senate at the state house.

In Maine the legislature has created February 12 of this year a legal holiday and principal observance will be at Portland, where addresses will be given by Congressman Alfred E. Dawson, of Iowa, Ralph E. Cole, of Ohio, and others.

These are only a few of the leading Lincoln celebrations that will be held.

Detecting Counterfeit Notes.

Incidentally, it is interesting to one to detect a counterfeit comes not from a study of counterfeit, but from a thorough and unconscious familiarity with the genuine. If a man were pointed out to you and you were told that some one another who much resembled him would try to impose upon you, you would not spend any time looking at other people who looked something like him would you? And the moment the impostor appeared you would note that in this, that or the other particular he failed to meet the details of the other man's face and figure. Just so it is in the detection of counterfeit. A skillful teller in a bank, counting money rapidly will involuntarily throw out a note which in the slightest degree departs from the well known pattern which is so strongly impressed on his mental vision. That involuntary act will nearly always prove to have been justified, for the bill in question comes out of twenty will prove to be a counterfeit. It is because of this fact that when a request is received from some one to loan him a collection of counterfeit bills he is advised to have the young men study the genuine carefully, and there will be no trouble in detecting the bad notes. Said to Cure Piles, Liver Trouble and Constipation.

Says a well known motherly nurse-matron of one of our largest hospitals: "Never permit yourself or any member of your family to be constipated twenty-four hours; for back of nearly all sickness, especially those most difficult to treat, such as appendicitis, typhoid, malaria, scarlet fever, diphtheria, small-pox, piles and womanly derangements, is neglected or improperly treated constipation. Let every intelligent family get the following prescription filled:

"Obtain of any leading druggist, 'one ounce' aromatic fluid cascara, 'one ounce' compound essence cardiol, and 'two ounces' aromatic syrup rhubarb. Mix and adults take from one-half to two teaspoonsful after each meal. Mild and honey-like, and children take readily five drops to a teaspoonful, according to age, after each meal. This may be used without any bad effects and with absolute certainty of cure."

HARD ON THE FACE.

Do you suppose that any folks conversed from day to day in language such as Shakespeare used in working out a play? If they essayed the style he slung When he was at his best They'd have to stop from time to time And give their jaws a rest.

A steady stream of sentences In his Latin style His characters rolled from their tongues And talked it all the while. They never stopped to chew a word Nor for a breathing space, Nor into slang did they descend Just to relieve their face.

The varied, knight or roustabout Who couldn't read a line Rolled gnarled and jagged language out In manner supreme. They simply scattered gems of thought As coals in spring shed hair And, were they learned or untaught, Right with the goods were there.

In battle's fierce and swift stress Or in the heat of time They had their feelings to express In stilted prose or rhyme. They may have tossed words in the breeze As pictured in the play, But how I'd hate to have to ease Myself of thought that way!

The Mesher.

"Where are you going, my pretty maid?"
"To get the copper for you," she said.

Figured on a Trade.

"Are you the dentist?" asked a large, florid man, rushing into a shop where a small, dapper youth was working at a chair.

"I am," confessed the youth.

"I want you to come right down to the circus. I have a lion there with a bad tooth, and I want to have it pulled."

"All right. I will come."

"When?"

"When I feel that I want to have my arm amputated."

Thought There Was a Penalty.

"I cannot understand all of your laws and customs," said the foreigner who had got his education by reading the comic papers.

"What is puzzling you now?" asked the obliging native.

"I would like to know how much a man is fined in your country for being kind to his mother-in-law."

Silence Protected Them.

"They met as immigrants from two different countries, and, though neither could speak a word of the other's language, they fell in love and were married."

"How did they get along?"

"Very fine until they both learned to talk English."

No Go.

"Brown acts gruff this morning."

"Yes; struck me for a loan yesterday."

"Ah, I see. Made a touch."

"Not on your life! He never touched me."

WHEN THE BABY CRIES—

Don't ask the mother if she uses any special nostrum; she might say that she has conscientious scruples against infanticide.

Don't ask how many teeth he has; if he has none the mother will never forgive you, and if he has his full complement she will be likewise insulted.

Don't offer to rock the wailing infant; perhaps his mother belongs to the nonrockers. Don't refrain from offering; she may think you a heartless, selfish brute who can hear her little woody-woody scream his heart out and not move a finger.

Don't ask what they ever do for him; that might imply much that the dotting parents will resent.

In fact, when the baby cries give him a who, berth and absent treatment while he occupies it.

"The Honeymooners."

Of all the pretty girls who ever left Broadway to go on the road George M. Cohan has enticed away the prettiest party for "The Honeymooners," which comes to The Kentucky Tuesday, February 9. It is a hard working chorus, for there are no less than 20 musical numbers and as they are mostly big hits the encores are numerous. "The Honeymooners" is Cohan's pet song show; he wrote it for himself to have a safe and certain vehicle for an all-summer run on Broadway and he loaded it up with his best.

A Great Play.

"The Lion and the Mouse," Charles Klein's play of American social and financial conditions, which Henry B. Harris will present here in a few days, has been preceded for upwards of a year with the strongest endorsements which any drama has received from the American press for a great many years. The intensity and truthfulness with which Mr. Klein has pictured the evil influence of money power on the social and political phases of life caused a perfect stampede for the Lyceum theater, New York, where the play ran for two years.

"A Knight for a Day."
Audiences of large size and high spirits attended the year's engagement.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Is the best of all medicines for the cure of diseases, disorders and weaknesses peculiar to women. It is the only preparation of its kind devised by a regularly graduated physician—an experienced and skilled specialist in the diseases of women.

It is a safe medicine in any condition of the system. THE ONE REMEDY which contains no alcohol and no injurious, habit-forming drugs and which creates no craving for such stimulants.

THE ONE REMEDY so good that its makers are not afraid to print its every ingredient on each outside bottle wrapper and attest to the truthfulness of the same under oath.

It is sold by medicine dealers everywhere, and any dealer who hasn't it can get it. Don't take a substitute of unknown composition for this medicine of known composition. No counterfeit is as good as the genuine and the druggist who says something else is "just as good as Dr. Pierce's" is either mistaken or is trying to deceive you for his own selfish benefit. Such a man is not to be trusted. He is trifling with your most priceless possession—your health—may be your life itself. See that you get what you ask for.

Welcoming the Traveler.

I have always had a good opinion of the enterprise of the life insurance agent. It has seemed to me that the busy bee is a lazy ne'er-do-well compared with him. Recently this opinion has been strengthened.

An old colored servant living in a neighboring family made his first trip away from home and visited relatives in New York.

On his return to Louisiana he was asked what he did while in the north. "Well, 'mong 'udah 'tings, I done tuk a life insurance policy fo' a hundred dollahs."

"Why, what on earth do you want with a life insurance policy? You have no wife or children."

"Dat's what I done to! him, but I had t' take it, all de same. De agent man, he met me at de boat landin' an' he said I'd haf t' have one or he'd sen' me back home. He worn't gwine fo' t' low me t' land if I didn't buy one. Dey don't 'low no one in New York 'less dey has a 'substance policy.'—Woman's Home Companion.

Chicago Inaugurates Lincoln Week.

Every Town in State Will Have Some Sort of Celebration—Springfield One Point of Interest.

NEW ENGLAND ALSO IN LINE.

Chicago, Feb. 8.—By authority of the city council and the unanimous consent of the entire population, today inaugurates Lincoln week in Chicago to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the martyred president.

While every city and village in the state, and especially Springfield, will bedeck itself in flags and Lincoln portraits, interest is particularly attached here because of the elaborateness of the program, which, beginning with Lincoln sermons today, will continue until midnight Saturday.

In New England. Boston, Mass., Feb. 8.—New England will pay a notable tribute this week to Abraham Lincoln in recognition of the centenary of his birth. The author of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," the venerable Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, will read a poem written for the occasion at the exercises in Symphony hall here Friday evening and addresses will be made by former Secretary of the Navy Long, and others. At noon Friday Senator Henry Cabot Lodge will deliver the Lincoln oration before the joint assembly of the house and senate at the state house.

In Maine the legislature has created February 12 of this year a legal holiday and principal observance will be at Portland, where addresses will be given by Congressman Alfred E. Dawson, of Iowa, Ralph E. Cole, of Ohio, and others. These are only a few of the leading Lincoln celebrations that will be held.

Detecting Counterfeit Notes. Incidentally, it is interesting to one to detect a counterfeit comes not from a study of counterfeit, but from a thorough and unconscious familiarity with the genuine. If a man were pointed out to you and you were told that some one another who much resembled him would try to impose upon you, you would not spend any time looking at other people who looked something like him would you? And the moment the impostor appeared you would note that in this, that or the other particular he failed to meet the details of the other man's face and figure. Just so it is in the detection of counterfeit. A skilful teller in a bank, counting money rapidly with involuntary throw out a note which in the slightest degree departs from the well known pattern which is so strongly impressed on his mental vision. That involuntary act will nearly always prove to have been justified, for the bill in question cases out of twenty will prove to be a counterfeit. It is because of this fact that when a request is received from some one to loan him a collection of counterfeits for the instruction of his cashiers he is advised to have the young men study the genuine carefully, and there will be no trouble in detecting the bad notes.—National Magazine.

It's awfully hard for a crooked man to keep in the straight path.

Said to Cure Piles, Liver Trouble and Constipation.

Says a well known motherly nurse-matron of one of our largest hospitals: "Never permit yourself or any member of your family to be constipated twenty-four hours; for back of nearly all sickness, especially those most difficult to treat, such as appendicitis, typhoid, malaria, scarlet fever, diphtheria, smallpox, piles and womanly derangements, is neglected or improperly treated constipation. Let every intelligent family get the following prescription filled:

"Obtain of any leading druggist, 'one ounce aromatic fluid cascara,' 'one ounce compound essence cardiol,' and 'two ounces aromatic syrup rhubarb.' Mix and adults take from one-half to two teaspoonsful after each meal. Mild and honey-like, and children take readily five drops to a teaspoonful, according to age, after each meal. This may be used without any bad effects and with absolute certainty of cure."

HARD ON THE FACE.

Do you suppose that any folks conversed from day to day in language such as Shakespeare used in working out a play? If they essayed the style he slung. When he was at his best they'd have to stop from time to time and give their jaws a rest.

A steady stream of sentences in his Latin style. His characters rolled from their tongues. And talked it all the while. They never stopped to chew a word. Nor for a breathing space. Nor into slang did they descend. Just to relieve their face.

The velvet, knight or roustabout. Who couldn't read a line. Rolled garbled and jugged language out. In manner supreme. They simply scattered gems of thought. As coals in spring shed hair. And, when they learned or unlearned, right with the gods were there.

In battle's fierce and awful stress. Or in the heat of crime. They had their feelings to express. In stilted prose or rhyme. They may have tossed words in the breeze. As pictured in the play. But how I'd hate to have to ease. Myself of thought that way!

"Where are you going, my pretty maid?"
"To get the copper for you," she said.

Figured on a Trade.
"Are you the dentist?" asked a large, florid man, rushing into a shop where a small, dapper youth was working at a chair.

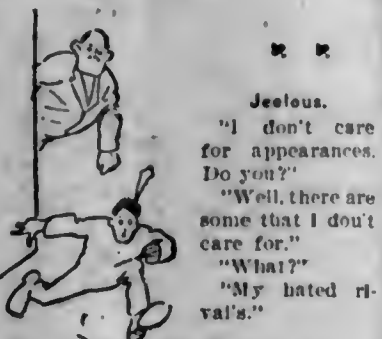

"I am," confessed the youth.
"I want you to come right down to the circus. I have a lion there with a bad tooth, and I want to have it pulled."

"All right. I will come."
"When?"
"When I feel that I want to have my arm amputated."

Thought There Was a Penalty.
"I cannot understand all of your laws and customs," said the foreigner who had got his education by reading the comic papers.
"What is puzzling you now?" asked the obliging native.
"I would like to know how much a man is fined in your country for being kind to his mother-in-law."

Silence Protected Them.
"They met as immigrants from two different countries, and, though neither could speak a word of the other's language, they fell in love and were married."
"How did they get along?"
"Very fine until they both learned to talk English."

No Go.
"Brown acts gruff this morning."
"Yes; struck me for a loan yesterday."
"Ah, I see. Made a touch."
"Not on your life! He never touched me."

WHEN THE BABY CRIES—

Don't ask the mother if she uses any special nostrums; she might say that she has conscientious scruples against infanticide.

Don't ask how many teeth he has; if he has none the mother will never forgive you, and if he has his full complement she will be likewise insulted.

Don't offer to rock the wailing infant; perhaps his mother belongs to the non-rockers. Don't refrain from offering; she may think you a heartless, selfish brute who can hear her little woody-woody scream his heart out and not move a finger.

Don't ask what they ever do for him; that might imply much that the doing parents will resent.

In fact, when the baby cries give him a who, berth and absent treatment while he occupies it.

"The Land of Nod."
Knox Wilson, the "extending" clever and popular comedian of "The Land of Nod," will be seen as a star next season in a new musical comedy, which is being especially written for him. The character designed for Mr. Wilson is entirely unlike the one which he is playing in "The Land of Nod." It will afford him greater scope for the display of his versatility and he is delighted with the prospect of having a part in which he will depict a rascally man rather than the "fool," although it is due to his splendid work in "The Land of Nod" that he has been singled out for important stardom honors.

REACTION FIRM FROM THE PANIC

Felt More Plainly Than at Any Previous Time.

Stock Exchange Operations Continue to Reflect Outside Conditions
of Trade.

THE GOLD EXPORT CONTINUES.

New York, Feb. 8. (Special.)—It is very apparent that we are feeling the reactionary effects of the panic more plainly than at any time since it occurred. There is more hesitation in spirit than has been experienced in many months. Its general contentment the tariff is blamed for the state of affairs; yet, while an element of delay and uncertainty, it cannot be held responsible for many of the signs of depression which are daily coming under observation. Iron and steel products are not dropping because of an impending change of the tariff, especially for nothing harmful is expected in that direction. Iron and steel prices are declining simply because of lack of demand. Railroads are small purchasers, notwithstanding the ease with which they can raise money, and our finished steel plants are running to about only 60 per cent of their capacity. Buyers have been distrustful because steel prices were held up in face of depression after the panic, and they remain distrustful because they know that price is dependent more upon artificial regulation than upon the open play of competition which is always a safer test of real value than the arbitrary decision of great combinations. Copper, too, is weak for similar reasons. Tariff has nothing to do with the commodity but prices have been so long governed by artificial conditions that buyers have lost confidence and will not take hold except at lower prices. In this they are encouraged by large supplies by the falling off in new building enterprises and by the general feeling that the country, whether it likes it or not, must endure a period of further quiet and readjustment.

It will be remembered that we were all astonished at the wonderful recuperative activity which the country showed after the crash in 1907. It was unusual and with good reason that the panic differed from others, inasmuch as the agricultural classes were prosperous and the country was not burdened with overproduction in any quarter. The rebound from that disaster, however, was entirely too violent and was overstimulated by an excessive supply of cheap money and by the tremendous restraining power of the great corporations or trusts which never before had the opportunity of exercising their power in this direction. As a result we fell into the delusion that the effects of the panic were over and that the old-time prosperity would soon be here. This was a fatal mistake for which we are now enduring the penalty. Those effects have simply been deferred; and it is a question now whether the cure would not have been more effectual and more rapid if events had not been allowed to take their natural course. The cotton goods market, for instance, is a striking example of the beneficent working of the open market. No industry in this country is more free of combinations and more open to free competition than that of cotton goods. As a result cottons were the first to undergo the necessary readjustment of prices and production; and today that market is in better condition in every respect than any other great industry of the country. Nearly all of our great trusts are languishing under the ill effects of unwise and artificial regulation. Tariff agitation is, as we know, chiefly blamed for present inertia, and there is no doubt that many negotiations are held in suspense on this account; but there are other elements of depression, as just noted; and, as no injurious changes are expected in the tariff, there is little real occasion for hesitancy on that account. The truth is the readjustment process is still incomplete. We must come down to lower costs of production and lower costs of living; then we may be ready for a fresh start. Meanwhile tariff revision will continue to be used as a bogey by those who wish to frighten congress out of making any important reductions in the schedules.

Stock Operations
Stock exchange operations continue to reflect outside conditions, inertia and weakness being the main features. Many leading operators are absent on their usual winter vacations, and in banking circles there is a marked absence of the optimism so prevalent before the election. The main support of the market appears to be the money situation. Funds are still overabundant, and our banks and trust companies are generally in exceptionally sound condition. The chief complaint is the difficulty of finding satisfactory employment for their money. Had we an elastic currency system and effective redemption arrangements, the situation would quickly correct itself. As it is the ill effects of this combination of too much money and too little business must be overcome as best we may. Our national finances are becoming a matter of real concern. The treasury deficit is now $80,000,000. Some excellent authorities estimate that it will reach $125,000,000 at the end of the fiscal year in June. All this is due more to national extravagance than to a falling off in revenue. The latter is only temporary and a deficit would have come even had government receipts been maintained because of the reckless increase of national expenses. With the depletion of the treasury surplus public deposits in the banks are being reduced to a minimum. This, however, has no serious effect upon the money market, since such funds quickly find their way back to the banks. The condition of the treasury will of course be used as an argument against tariff revision, notwithstanding the fact that when business revives revenues will increase and could in many instances be actually augmented by a judicious lowering of some of the schedules.

Gold Export.
Gold exports were renewed, further shipments having gone to Argentina on London account and more is likely to follow. London is now finding less difficulty in obtaining gold and is correspondingly relieved, so that a better tone is reported in that market as well as a better investment demand. Investors here are in an exceedingly conservative mood. Their demands have been satisfied for the time being, and banking circles are not inclined to subscribe to further bond issues until those now in the market are better distributed. A goodly portion of the new issues have been used for the taking care of maturing obligations, but the excessive new offerings since January 1 are exerting a more or less depressing effect. Speculation is confined within narrow limits. Every sharp decline is followed by more or less buying to cover on occasional good rallies, but the general tendency appears to be towards a still lower range of values. There is no special source of weakness except a general sense that prices have been too high, and that a moderate recession would be both natural and beneficial. Money rates are somewhat firmer owing to the pending withdrawal of government deposits, to gold exports, to the withdrawals of trust company reserves and to the expected large Panama loan.

California was making its biennial declaration of war upon Japan. "The president is opposed to us," said the sponsor of the movement; "the people of forty-five benighted states are opposed to us; but"—he paused for the effect—"but Holston is with us."
Nippon was jarred by the mighty cheer that went up.—Philadelphia Ledger.

REACTION FIRM FROM THE PANIC

Felt More Plainly Than at Any Previous Time.

Stock Exchange Operations Continue to Reflect Outside Conditions
of Trade.

THE GOLD EXPORT CONTINUES.

New York, Feb. 8. (Special.)—It is very apparent that we are feeling the reactionary effects of the panic more plainly than at any time since it occurred. There is more hesitancy in spirit than has been experienced in many months. By general consent the tariff is blamed for this state of affairs; yet, while an element of delay and uncertainty, it cannot be held responsible for many of the signs of depression which are daily coming under observation. Iron and steel products are not dropping because of an impending change of the tariff, especially for nothing harmful is expected in that direction. Iron and steel prices are declining simply because of lack of demand. Railroads are small purchasers, notwithstanding the ease with which they can raise money, and our finished steel plants are running to about only 60 per cent of their capacity. Buyers have been distrustful because steel prices were held up in face of depression after the panic, and they remain distrustful because they know that prices depend more upon artificial regulation than upon the open play of competition, which is always a safer test of real value than the arbitrary decision of great combinations. Copper, too, is weak for similar reasons. Tariff has nothing to do with this commodity, but prices have been so long governed by artificial conditions that buyers have lost confidence and will not take hold except at lower prices. In this they are encouraged by large supplies by the falling off in new building enterprises and by the general feeling that the country, whether it likes it or not, must endure a period of further quiet and readjustment.

Reorganization.

It will be remembered that we were all astounded at the wonderful recuperative activity which the country showed after the crash in 1907. It was argued and with good reason that this panic differed from others, inasmuch as the agricultural classes were prosperous and the country was not burdened with overproduction in any quarter. The rebound from that disaster, however, was entirely too violent and was overstimulated by an excessive supply of cheap money and by the tremendous restraining power of the great corporations or trusts which never before had the opportunity of exercising their power in this direction. As a result we fell into the delusion that the effects of the panic were over and that the old-time prosperity would soon be here. This was a fatal mistake for which we are now enduring the penalty. Those effects have simply been deferred; and it is a question now whether the cure would not have been more effective and more rapid if events had not been allowed to take their natural course. The cotton goods market, for instance, is a striking example of the beneficent working of the open market. No industry in this country is more free of combinations and more open to free competition than that of cotton goods. As a result cottons were the first to undergo the necessary readjustment of prices and production; and today that market is in better condition in every respect than any other great industry of the country. Nearly all of our great trusts are languishing under the ill effects of unwise and artificial regulation. Tariff agitation is, as we know, chiefly blamed for present ills, and there is no doubt that many negotiations are held in suspense on this account; but there are other elements of depression, as just noted; and, as no injurious changes are expected in the tariff, there is little real occasion for hesitancy on that account. The truth is the readjustment process is still incomplete. We must come down to lower costs of production and lower costs of living; then we may be ready for a fresh start. Meanwhile tariff revision will continue to be used as a bogey by those who wish to frighten congress out of making any important reductions in the schedules.

Stock Operations.

Stock exchange operations continue to reflect outside conditions, inertia and weakness being the main features. Many leading operators are absent on their usual winter vacations, and in banking circles there is a marked absence of the optimism so prevalent before the election. The main support of the market appears to be the money situation. Funds are still overabundant, and our banks and trust companies are generally in exceptionally sound condition. The chief complaint is the difficulty of finding satisfactory employment for their money. Had we an elastic currency system and effective redemption arrangements, the situation would quickly correct itself. As it is the ill effects of this combination of too much money and too little business must be overcome as best we may. Our national finances are becoming a matter of real concern. The treasury deficit is now $24,000,000. Some excellent authorities estimate that it will reach $155,000,000 at the end of the fiscal year in June. All this is due more to national extravagance than to a falling off in revenue. The latter is only temporary and a deficit would have come even had government receipts been maintained because of the reckless increase of national expenses. With the depletion of the treasury surplus public deposits in the banks are being reduced to a minimum. This, however, has no serious effect upon the money market, since such funds quickly find their way back to the banks. The condition of the treasury will of course be used as an argument against tariff revision, notwithstanding the fact that when business revives revenues will increase and could in many instances be actually augmented by a judicious lowering of some of the schedules.

Gold Export.

Gold exports were renewed, further shipments having gone to Argentina on London account and more is likely to follow. London is now finding less difficulty in obtaining gold and is correspondingly relieved so that a better tone is reported in that market as well as a better investment demand. Investors here are in an exceedingly conservative mood. Their demands have been satisfied for the time being, and banking circles are not inclined to subscribe to further bond issues until those now in the market are better distributed. A goodly portion of the new issues have been used for the taking care of maturing obligations, but the excessive new offerings since January 1 are exerting a more or less depressing effect. Speculation is confined within narrow limits. Every sharp decline is followed by more or less buying to cover on occasional good rallies, but the general tendency appears to be towards a still lower range of values. There is no special source of weakness except a general sense that prices have been too high, and that a moderate recession would be both natural and beneficial. Money rates are somewhat firmer owing to the pending withdrawal of government deposits, to gold exports, to the withdrawal of trust company reserves and to the expected large Panama loan.

BOOST, DON'T BOAST.

"Boost, don't knock," is a maxim that becomes folly in the mouths of the foolish. A boost is of little value unless it makes the object boosted go forward. So, big talk and braggadocio are not boosting. What the community lacks and can get should be frankly stated by the booster, who should proceed to boost the community on toward its attainment. To boost a community has that, which it has not, is not boasting—it is boasting, a very different thing. Sometimes a boost takes the form of a knock, if it is in the right quarter—the right hindquarter, generally. Perhaps, "boost, don't boast," would be a good motto and better understood.

DUN'S REVIEW.

It is generally conceded that dogs have much instinct, but yesterday

Patrolman Henry Singery ran across one that could recognize the authority of the man in blue and brass buttons. Patrolman Singery received a call yesterday to go to a house on Jefferson street, where some trouble had been reported. The tall cop made a quick trip, but found everything serene, as the home is located in a fashionable residence section.

He inquired of neighbors of any disturbance, when a woman called out from a window that the policeman was wanted at her home. Then she told her story. A small dog, not over four months old, was on the front porch and it had run after her, and she was afraid it was mad. The policeman saw that the dog was only a pup anxious to play, and taking his stick tapped the dog and drove him away.

"There," said the policeman, "that dog is not mad, he only wanted to play, and would not bother anybody.

You could have driven him away with a broom."

"Yes, it is easy to say that," replied the matron, "but you see that dog knew you were a policeman."

Fashion has decreed that the

it remained for a minister of Ada, O.,

to announce that he would not preach until the hats were removed. However, a more clever scheme was used by Dr. Crossfield, who recently conducted a revival in the city. Before beginning his sermon he said: "Now

I am going to ask every woman whose hat has been paid for to remove it, so that every one may see the speaker." It is needless to add that every hat was removed.

Birthday Honored.

A pleasant surprise was given Mrs. Speas, of Paducah, Graves county, by a number of her neighbors in honor of her birthday. Mrs. Speas had been visiting her son a few miles away and when she returned she found a crowd of friends had gathered at her home where a delightful dinner was prepared and served. Music and games were enjoyed after dinner and the afternoon was most pleasantly spent. Those present were: Messrs. and Mesdames Iud Shelton, Jim Coleman, Dent Shelton, Linnie Switzer, Perry Green, Frank King, Jim Watson, Sam Hines, Jim Gore, Lew Stampe, Vernon Speas, Marion Rhew, F. Griffin, Lon Edwards, Roy Speas; Mesdames Amanda Rhew, Lizzie Shelton, Ida Griffin, Martha Hoeffler; Misses Mary Green, Callie Johnson, Anna Enoch, Ida Coleman, Lillian Coleman, Wanda Speas, Edith Speas, Watson; Messrs. Willie Enoch, John Gore, Jim Hill, Jim Smith, John Johnson, Arthur Switzer, J. W. Switzer, Willie Rhew, Kendrick Campbell, Melvin McNeill, Ed Kaler, Frank Mitchell, Milford Nunley, Will Shelton.

Mrs. John H. Walker, hostess of a party in San Antonio.

The San Antonio Express says of a reception given by a former Paducah girl, who is popular here and who recently visited her sister, Mrs. Louis L. Bebout, of Glenwood, this city: "Mrs. John H. Walker was hostess at a pretty reception yesterday as a farewell compliment to Mrs. C. C. Coleman, who will leave shortly for her new home in Abilene. The reception suite was tastefully decorated in roses, ferns and palms. The reception line consisted of Mrs. Walker, Mrs. Coleman, Mrs. Mary Lowry, Mrs. H. L. Kokeraot, Mrs. J. B. Wheat and Mrs. S. with ferns and palms. Mrs. Lon D. Cartwright and Mrs. J. H. Trolinger presided. In the dining room, where a scheme of red prevailed, American Beauty roses and red shaded candles were used. Mrs. Walter Whisenand and Mrs. A. Tolle dispensed the hospitality of the room. A course of dainty refreshments was served. A Biblical contest afforded the amusement of the afternoon. About forty members of the Missionary Aid society of the First Baptist church were guests of the occasion.

Dinner Party in Honor of Her Classmates.

Miss Lucy Belle Settle entertained the Senior class, which was graduated from the Paducah High school last month, at dinner Saturday evening. The class colors, red and white, were prettily carried out in the table decorations. A centerpiece was formed of red and white carnations, arranged in a tall vase, on a silver tray, surrounded by ferns and smilax. Red and white carnations alternated in place cards. Red and white mints further emphasized the color idea. The guests were: Misses Irma Yelzer, Elizabeth Kirkland, Marian Williamson, Eleanor Cabell; Messrs. Edward Mitchell, John Hinkley, William Wilhelm, Frank Luffenberg and George Rawleigh.

Miss Roosevelt Wants to See Kentucky's Beautiful Women.

The announcement that Mrs. Roosevelt and her daughter, Miss Ethel Roosevelt, will accompany the president to Kentucky and to Hodgenville next Friday to honor the Lincoln centenary celebration, will lend additional interest to the personnel of the famous people gathered there. The Louisville Courier-Journal says:

"Five trains will run from Louisville to Hodgenville on that day. One of them will carry President Roosevelt and his party, including Mrs. Roosevelt and Miss Ethel Roosevelt. The coming of Mrs. Roosevelt and Miss Ethel Roosevelt, two of the first women of the land, will add interest to the occasion, as it was only at the twelfth hour that it became known that these two interesting personages were to come to Kentucky. Just how the wires have been manipulated to get Mrs. Roosevelt and Miss Ethel Roosevelt to come and do homage to a Kentuckian is not known, but it is enough to know they are coming. The women of Kentucky, without whom, in the estimation of Kentuckians, nothing is a success, now will be expected to wake up and take notice."

"Charles E. Miner, of New York, who is representing R. F. Collier in the arrangements, is vouching for the statement that Mrs. Roosevelt and Miss Ethel will come. He said: 'I have it from a source that is authentic that they are coming. I know Mrs. Roosevelt is as patriotic as ever her husband was; I also know that Miss Ethel has the Roosevelt blood coursing through her veins and that she is ready to forego any social triumph to come to Kentucky and at the same time pay tribute to the memory of such a man as Lincoln. They are coming and will be on the president's special train.'"

"Now Miss Ethel Roosevelt is the 'white house debutante,' and she is 'Miss Roosevelt.' She is nothing if not patriotic, and she wants to see Kentucky. She has said that she wants to see—not the fine horses; nor does she want a sample of Kentucky stills, but in her very heart she wants to see Kentucky's feminine beauty. She wants to see the fair, radiant faces, with their lines of deep, stable character and nobleness—such faces as have made Kentucky famous in the eyes of the civilized world, and for that she comes to Kentucky, as well as to do homage to the memory of Lincoln, one of Kentucky's illustrious sons."

Mr. and Mrs. Buck to Attend Kentucky's Lincoln Celebration.

Mr. and Mrs. Loeffel L. Buck, of Hastings-on-the-Hudson, N. Y., will arrive Saturday evening to visit Mrs. Buck's sisters, Mrs. Elbridge Palmer and Miss Frances Gould, at "The Ferns." Mr. and Mrs. Buck are coming out to attend the Lincoln centenary at Hodgenville and will come direct from there to Paducah.

Bruce's Mother.
The inspector was examining Standard 1, and all the class had been specially told beforehand by their master, "Don't answer unless you are almost certain your answer is correct." History was the subject.

"Now, tell me," said the inspector, "who was the mother of our great Scottish hero, Robert Bruce?"

He pointed to the top boy, then round the class. There was no answer. Then at last the heart of the teacher of the class leaped with joy. The boy who was standing at the very foot held up his hand.

"Well, my boy," said the inspector encouragingly, "who was she?"

"Please, sir, Mrs. Bruce."—Tit-Bits.

DAMS IN OHIO

PROVIDED FOR IN RIVER AND HARBOUR BILL.

Will insure Nine Foot Stage Year Around From Cincinnati to Pittsburgh.

Washington, February 3.—The river and harbor appropriation bill has been completed. Every effort has been made to make it appear that work upon it is being continued, as it is the desire of Chairman Burton not to bring it to a halt near the close of the session. A corrected print of the bill, to which access was secured, shows that it carries $7,829,750. The amount to be carried will not entitle the measure to be counted among the great supply bills, but the surveys to be authorized in this bill will mean the starting of projects costing hundreds of millions.

The bill makes an effort to give legislative sanction to an inland waterway commission. The number of members of this commission is yet to be decided, but they are to be named to members of congress. The provision in a general way is an incorporation into the bill of the measure introduced within a week by Representative Lammie, of Illinois.

Dams in Ohio River.
One of the most important items in the bill is one which calls for the definite location of sites for twelve dams in the Ohio river and the preparation of plans for two more, the sites of which have been acquired. The work authorized in this bill will create a nine-foot channel from Pittsburgh to Cincinnati. That item is the beginning of a project, the engineers have estimated, will cost $64,000,000, the purpose of which is to give the river nine feet of water at all seasons of the year.

A FAMOUS BEAUTY SPECIALIST Gives Advice to Women Lacking in Energy and Vitality.

Thousands of women are using toilet preparations unsuccessfully. Cosmetics fail to improve their thick, muddy complexions or to banish the pimples, blackheads and crow's feet.

No wonder. Their trouble lies far deeper than the skin. They have bad blood, and bad blood is 90 per cent. of the cases arise from inflammation of the mucous membrane. Their blood is filled with poison which is certain to break out in unsightly humors and blotches—while pale, drawn faces, deep circled eyes, stooping shoulders and weak backs complete the story of suffering and despair.

Inflammation of the mucous membrane is catarrh. Banish catarrh and complexions will clear as if by magic, pain vanish, eyes will brighten, faces become plump and shoulders erect. Perfect beauty goes only with perfect health, and perfect health for women can only be obtained through Rexall Muc-Tone, the one positive and permanent cure for Catarrh.

Mme. Swift, 44 W. 26th St., New York City, the most famous beauty specialist in the world and an accepted authority on all relating thereto, has this to say of Muc-Tone:

"I can strongly endorse the claims made for Rexall Muc-Tone as a cure for systemic catarrh. Its tonic effects are remarkable. It builds up the strength and restores vitality. If women who are tired and run down, lacking in energy and vitality, will use Muc-Tone, they will praise it as I do for its strengthening and healing qualities."

Rexall Muc-Tone works through the blood, and acting directly upon the mucous cells—the congestion and inflammation of which are the sole cause of catarrh—causes them to expel the poison and to resume their natural functions. Thus the membranes are cleansed—the blood purified and revitalized.

We know that Rexall Muc-Tone will cure every form of catarrh, no matter where located, of how long standing, or by what other names it is known. We guarantee to refund your money if you are not satisfied with the vigorous health and clear complexion it brings you.

CHURCH INCREASE BELOW AVERAGE

Figures of Last Year's Growth Show Smaller Gain.

How Churches Grew in 1908 and Relative Standing of Denominations.

THE NUMBER OF PREACHERS

The annual survey of religious statistics for 1908 shows that all the religious bodies in the United States together made a net gain of nearly a quarter of a million members or 720,647. During the year the numbers of churches increased by 1,874, and the number of ministers by 2,855. Nevertheless this increase is less than normal in all these items; the average membership gain for the past six years is 912,718. The total present number of church members in the United States is 24,282,543.

One American in Three a Church Member.

The totals of these tables are surprising in their magnitude to persons who are not definitely informed as to the large part religion plays in the life of this country. These figures, compiled by Dr. H. K. Carroll, who was in charge of the government census of 1890, and which are printed in the Christian Advocate, show that more than one-third of the population of the United States is enrolled on church books. As the Protestant Churches do not enroll infants as members this makes the total all the more significant when contrasted with these figures for population now given as approximately eighty millions.

The Much Divided Denominations.
If there is any American who cannot find a religious denomination to suit him he must be too fastidious for this earth. For this latest report shows that the denominations number 155, and probably no living man, however well versed in religious matters, can enumerate from memory half that number. Among the little known names on this list are the "Old Two-Seed-in-the-Spice" Protestant Baptists, who boast more than 12,000 members; the "Brethren of Monmouth" and the "Disciples of Monmouth;" the "Schweitzfelders;" the "Lutherans," etc.

Most of these smaller denominations have split from larger groups. Of the latter the Lutherans afford the greatest variety, twenty-four Lutheran sects being listed in addition to eighty-three independent Lutheran congregations. Strangely the latter could not find a congenial association in any of these twenty-four varieties. Methodists rank next in diversity with eighteen divisions, the Baptist following with fourteen bodies. Of denominations claiming the general title "Brethren" there are fourteen, but they seem not to be brotherly enough to get along with one another. Of the "split Pias" as the Presbyterians are called, there are an even dozen. There are nine kinds of Catholic Churches.

Catholics in the Lead.
Outranking every other church four to one is the Roman Catholic with an estimated membership of 12,394,731. This, Dr. Carroll explains, means adherents, rather than members after the stricter fashion of the Protestant bodies. Be that as it may the Roman Catholic Church is by far the largest in this country, and in the total church membership of 24,000,000 it must be credited with 12,000,000, or slightly more than one-third.

Next to the Roman Catholics come the Methodists (North), with 3,112,448 communicants. Third are the Regular Baptists (South), with 2,054,301 members, followed next by these five denominations: Regular Baptists (colored), 1,564,877; Methodist Episcopal (South), 1,719,899; Presbyterian (North), 1,278,259; Disciples of Christ, 1,274,725; Regular Baptist (North), 1,187,356.

WORTH MOUNTAINS OF GOLD

During Change of Life, says Mrs. Chas. Barclay

Grantville, Va.—"I was passing through the change of life and suffered from nervousness and other annoying symptoms, and I can truly say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has proved worth mountains of gold to me, as it restored my health and strength. I never forget to tell my friends what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me during this trying period. I ample to me that for the sake of other suffering women I am willing to make my trouble public so you may publish this letter."—Mrs. CHAS. BARCLAY, R.F.D., Grantville, Va.

No other medicine for women's ills has received such widespread and qualified endorsement. Another record of cures of female ills is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. For more than 30 years it has been curing female complaints such as inflammation, ulceration, local weaknesses, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration, and it is unequalled for carrying women safely through the period of change of life. It costs but little to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and as Mrs. Barclay says, it is "worth mountains of gold" to suffering women.

having a million or more members. The others to the number of twenty-six more made down to a membership of 100,000 apiece. It is worthy of comment that of the 155 denominations only 35 have more than 100,000 each.

"Heathen Religion in America"
The cosmopolitanism of America is illustrated by the fact that most of the heathen creeds are represented in this table. Notwithstanding the difficulty of gathering statistics concerning these there are reported forty-seven Chinese Buddhist temples and nine Japanese Buddhist temples and Shinto shrines. No Hindu Temples are recorded, and the Mohammedan mosque, which is said to exist in New York, is unmentioned. There are three, Russian Syrian, Armenian and Polish Catholic churches reported.

Of Jews there are, in the Orthodox and Reformed wings, 143,000 reported. The two divisions of Mormonism number 395,500. Of communicant societies there are twenty-two bodies reported, but only 3,981 members. Doubtless there are more than 10,000 have been increased or diminished. The Christian Scientists are accredited with 85,996 members but these figures are not official; nor are statistics given concerning the "Disciples of Christ," which refuses allegiance to Mrs. Barclay. The Theosophists are given 2,600 members.

More Preachers Than Churches.
Apparently the gain in ministers exceeds the increase in the number of churches formed. The latter for last year was 1,874, while there was a net addition of 2,855 preachers. In the year 1907 the number of churches grew by 2,200. Of course the grand total shows more churches than preachers. There are 162,892 of the latter, while there are 211,175 congregations to be served. This leaves about 50,000 churches either without pastors or else sharing as is quite common, the ministrations of a pastor with one or more other churches.

Naturally Dr. Carroll harks back to the year 1890, when he did the same computation for the government. In the eighteen years there has been a net gain of 15,669,235 communicants, a net gain of 54,631 ministers, and a net gain of 70,416 churches, altogether a net increase of 49, 49 and 66 per cent. respectively.

VII.—The Selection of Seed

By C. V. GREGORY,
Agricultural Division, Iowa State College

Copyright, 1900, by American Press Association

ONE of the most important factors in crop production is the selection of seed. This is important not only in producing a large yield, but also in obtaining a product of the highest quality.

The use of the fanning mill as a means of sorting out the heaviest, plumpest grains was spoken of in the previous article. The importance of this means of seed selection cannot be too greatly emphasized.

One of the principal reasons for selecting the largest grains for seed is that they contain so much more food for the young plant. This enables it to make a strong, vigorous start. Such plants have more vitality, grow faster and produce larger yields than plants from shriveled seeds, which have a struggle for existence from the time they germinate. Another reason for selecting plump seed is that the resulting crop is likely to be of better quality and will thus bring a higher price when sold. The old law of "like produces like" applies to plants as well as to animals. One of the surest ways of bringing about improvement is by using parents of the desired type year after year.

Selecting seed according to size by screening out the small grains is not enough. Some of the largest grains are shriveled and light in weight. The only way to separate these is to use plenty of wind in the fanning mill so as to blow them over. Such grains are all right for feed, but are entirely out of place in the seed bin. This method of selection is especially important in the case of wheat, as it separates the hard from the soft ones are lighter. Hardness is an important factor to look after, since a hard wheat is much more valuable for milling purposes, making a larger amount of high grade flour.

FIG. XIII—GOOD AND BAD TYPES OF SEED WHEAT.
(Note the shriveled, shrunken condition of the kernels to the right.)

If the most value is to be obtained from the selection of seed some definite plan of improvement must be followed. By a little care a variety of wheat or oats may be so bred up as to increase the yield from ten to twenty bushels per acre. The work is a small item as compared with the benefits.

In starting the work of breeding the variety which does best in your particular locality should be selected. Go into the field just before harvest time and select forty or fifty of the best heads. In doing this the size and plumpness of the grain and the length of the head should be considered. This latter point has a great deal to do with the yield, since a long head often contains twice as much grain as a shorter one. The character of the straw is also important. It should be straight and strong, with no tendency to rust, as a weak straw or one that is badly rusted cannot hold up a heavy head of grain. Another point to notice is the stooling—that is, the number of stalks that grow up from one seed.

When the required number of such heads have been found they should be put away in a dry place until spring, when they should be thrashed out separately and planted in a little plot in the garden. The seed from each head should be sown in a row by itself. The rows should be about four inches apart and the plants the same distance apart in the row.

As harvest time comes on a great difference in these rows will be noticed. Some will be badly affected with rust. Some will have weak straw and will go down badly. Some will have short heads containing but a few grains each. A few of the rows will contain plants and heads of the type you are looking for. Select the best heads from these rows to plant in next year's plot.

The second year, if the first year's selection was properly carried on, considerable improvement will be observed. This year the seed from each of the strongest rows should be saved in bulk after sorting out any heads that are not of the required type. The seed from each of these rows is to be planted in a little plot by itself the following spring.

Notes on these plots regarding the strength of straw, amount of stooling and resistance to rust should be carefully kept. The main point to be considered, however, is the yield. The grain from each of the plots should be weighed and the preference given to the heaviest yielders. Seed from five or six of the best producing plots may then be saved for larger plots the fourth year. The yield of these, together with the quality of grain and strength of straw, will determine which strain is to be selected for field use.

A factor which often cuts off as much as 10 per cent from the yield of small grain is smut. Unlike rust, the treatment of this disease comes more under the head of preparation of the seed than that of selection. It may be well, however, to give a brief outline of the methods of prevention here.

Smut is a fungous growth—that is, a low form of plant which lives on other plants. It usually attacks the heads of small grain, filling the place where the kernels should be with a black, worthless mass. The black dust of which this mass is made up is comprised largely of spores, which correspond to seeds of higher plants. These spores become scattered over the seed in thrashing and storing. In the small spore germinates and sends a tiny thread up through the stem to the head, where it develops into the familiar smut ball. Often these smut balls are inside of a hull that appears perfectly sound from the outside, so that the damage from smut is much greater than would appear from simply glancing over the field.

Any method of treatment which will destroy the smut spores on the grain will prove effective, although the smut which is scattered in the field some times infects the plants the next year. When rotation is practiced, however, this is seldom the case, as the smut will not attack corn, nor will corn smut grow on oats.

The selection of seed corn is even more important than the selection of small grain, since so much less corn is required to plant an acre, thus permitting of much more careful choice. The most important point to be considered in the selection of seed ears is maturity. An ear that is not entirely mature will be light, the kernels will be loose on the cob and have a dull, chaffy appearance, and the germs will be shrunken and the back of the kernels wrinkled.

Such corn should not be selected for seed because the amount of food material stored in the kernel is too small to give the young sprout much of a start. The germ is also likely to be weak from being frozen while still in the immature, watery condition. The fact that an ear is not entirely ripe indicates, too, that it belongs to a variety just a little late for the locality.

Ears that are not entirely ripe are not nearly so valuable for seed as ripe, sound ones, even if the latter are not so large. By selecting only ears of this early maturing type a strain of corn can soon be developed which can be depended upon to ripen in the particular locality in which it is grown.

Since the size of the crop depends to a considerable extent on the size of the ear the seed ears selected should be as large as is consistent with early maturity. Mere size of ear is not enough, however. The ears should be well proportioned and not too big around for their length, since ears of this sort are late in maturing and slow to dry out. The size of an ear should be made up of corn instead of cob. This means deep kernels and a relatively small cob.

There must also be the largest possible amount of corn in proportion to the cob. To secure this the ear should be well filled out at butt and tip and fairly uniform in size from end to end. The kernels should be so firm on the ear that it cannot be twisted in the hands. There should be no spaces between the kernels next to the cob, nor should the spaces between the tops of the kernels be too great. They should not be packed together too tightly at this latter point, however, as this hinders rapid drying out. The rows should be straight and the kernels of uniform size.

In starting out to select ears of the desired type the work can be done much more quickly if the corn is laid out on a table or bench. Then by taking an ear for a sample which most nearly represents your ideal you can go over the entire lot and quickly pick out the ears that are most like it. The point of selecting ears of a uniform type is an important one as only in this way can the corn grower hope to make improvement from year to year. The methods of breeding corn to secure increased yield will be taken up in detail in the next article.

GREAT CROWD

WILL ATTEND LINCOLN CENTENARY CEREMONIES.

Governor Wilson Will Entertain Distinguished Company at the Mansion.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 8.—Governor Wilson will entertain a distinguished company at dinner at the executive mansion next Wednesday at noon. The party will come here in a private car and will stop over for a few hours only on their way to Hodgenville to be present at the celebration of the hundredth anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln. Charles E. Miner, secretary to Robert Collier, was here with his friend, McKenzie R. Todd, and said that the party probably would consist of Robert Collier, Clarence Mackey, Richard Lloyd Jones, secretary of the Lincoln Memorial association, and John Russell Pope, a young architect, who is already making his mark in the east. Former Governor Joseph Folk, who is president of the association, will reach here that day for a conference with Mr. Collier and then will go to Louisville and Hodgenville with the Collier party.

How many thousands of persons will be at the Lincoln farm next Friday is impossible to estimate, as much depends upon the weather, but Mr. Miner is rather of the opinion that if the day is a good one there will be not less than 2,000 people to witness the ceremonies. If it should be warm and pleasant, as may be the case, the exercises would be held out of doors, but if it is rainy or cold the ceremonies will be in the big tent. It is claimed that the Hodgenville people have made ample arrangements to handle even as many as 22,000 people and those in charge say that the crowd can be hustled to the Lincoln farm in any number and promptly. With this promise it is expected that the attendance will be unusually large, although no special effort has been made to have February 12 a day of general observance.

NOTICE.

I urgently request all persons indebted to me to make settlement before the first day of May, 1909, as I will after that date bring suit on every unpaid note and account due me. Now your account is to each of you a small matter, while the whole is to me very important. I shall deal with all alike; if you don't pay you may know that you will be sued, whatever your name or color may be. I hate to do this, but I am forced to it in self-defense. If you have not the money and will borrow it to pay me in full by the first day of March, 1909, I will deduct 10 per cent from your account, thereby paying the interest myself. Is this not as fair as any sane man can ask?

Quite Singular.

Paul Krauss, Jr., came down town the other morning with his hand in a bandage. "I never knew there were so many sympathetic people in the town," he said the day afterward. Within a distance of five blocks twenty people wanted to know how the young man had been injured. To the first five who asked he replied: "Cut it on a piece of glass." Finally this reply became monotonous and Krauss changed the character of his reply: "I carelessly handled my knife." In a moment of desperation he tried to dash into his father's store. But he was not to escape. A sympathetic

MAKE TRIP TO POLAR REGIONS

Amundsen is Voted $18,000 By Swedish Parliament.

Outlines His Plans—Not a Dash for the Pole, but Purely Scientific Expedition for Exploration.

OF THE NORTH POLAR BASIN.

Christiana, Feb. 8.—Captain Roald Amundsen's polar expedition is now assured, for the parliament today voted him a subsidy of $18,000 necessary for outfitting the famous ship, the Fram.

Speaking recently of the outlines of his plan, Amundsen said: "I should say at the outset that this is not to be any dash for the pole, but a carefully worked out scientific expedition, having for its object the fullest possible investigation of the North Polar Basin.

"I propose to start early next season and to be absent five or six years. There is no secret at all about the route I propose to follow. My object is to cross the Polar basin entering the Bering Straits and exploring slowly and thoroughly, wherever possible.

"I am adopting no new methods—no airships, balloons or motors—but simply using the old system which we know and have tried, namely a good vessel, good sledges and good dogs. I am in no hurry to be the first man to reach the pole. I do not even say I hope to do so, for I am not out for that purpose."

"The idea underlying the whole expedition is to use the means already provided by nature as proved by the drift of the Fram, and to avail myself of currents which undoubtedly run across the pole. This means entering the Polar region at Bering Straits and coming out between Spitzbergen and Greenland.

MORAL NUISANCE

MAY BE ENJOINED IN STATE OF KENTUCKY.

The Attorney General May Proceed Against Owner of Property in Gambling Case.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 8.—As a result of the decision of the court of appeals in the cases of J. B. Rospass, Mary Boro, Alex. Daverzac, all of Covington, against the commonwealth of Kentucky on relation of the attorney general gambling in all of its forms can be easily stopped and prevented in this state if the people of any community where the gambling is conducted do not permit it to continue by suffering. The court of appeals held that a court of equity has the right to enjoin the owners or possessors of property from renting it to persons who use it for the purpose of conducting a gambling game of any kind, and that it is the duty of the attorney general to bring injunction proceedings against the owners on such property on the grounds that the gambling conducted is a nuisance and should not be permitted.

The opinion is one of the most sweeping that has been handed down by the court at this term, for the court of appeals virtually holds that the court of equity has the right to enjoin a moral nuisance, for that it is as much the duty of the court of equity to enjoin a nuisance, for that it is as much the duty of the court of equity to enjoin a nuisance for the protection of the character of the individuals of the state as it is to protect their health or safety.
